

Poor, 11-year-old Missy was so uncomfortable when she arrived at SAFe in August. At 18 pounds, she was too large to groom herself. Then, our medical team discovered a tumor in her ear canal that could only be removed with specialized surgery.

While planning next steps,

Missy was fostered onsite. Each day, we gave her ear drops, sanitary wipes, and lots of affection. In return, Missy reminded us to take breaks and serenaded us with chirps and purrs.

With the cost of veterinary care and other expenses on the rise, we weren't sure how we would cover Missy's procedure. Though beloved, Missy was just one of many cats counting on us, and we didn't want to let any of them down.

We asked for your help, and the response was overwhelming! You showed up for Missy when she needed it most, helping us raise over $170,000 for her operation and vital Rescue programs.

After surgery and four weeks of recovery in a seasoned foster home, Missy returned to SAFe for her official debut on the Adoption Floor. She had one more heart to steal.

Missy has helped me learn that what matters most is to be loved, cared for, and cherished. She is a gift to me!!

Missy's adopter

A recent Seattle transplant with a senior kitty at home, Missy's mom fell in love at first sight. Today, Missy is thriving!

"I didn't know if she would even be able to do stairs," Missy's adopter says. "Imagine my surprise the first time I let her explore the house and she SPRINTED up the stairs and jumped from one couch to the other!"

Thank you for helping cats like Missy!

Saving cats, together.

Medical

No matter what a cat is going through, SAFe's team of vets, vet technicians, and medical assistants is there for them.

From performing 518 in-house spay and neuter surgeries to tending to 85 ringworm cases; offering individualized support and resources to foster homes or developing treatment plans for kitties like the ones on the right, our medical team provides compassionate care to each cat passing through our doors.

Diagnosed with feline immunodeficiency virus (FIV), Milo needed dental extractions and eye surgery to feel better before going home in May.

Tiny Floyd had the odds stacked against him. He came down with panleukopenia before he was even two weeks old, followed by a series of health troubles. It took nine weeks of intense care, but Floyd made it past this rough start and grew into a healthy, happy kitten!

When he first arrived at SAFe, Elton was severely malnourished, dehydrated, and missing patches of fur. Our medical and foster teams worked together to nourish him back to health. Once shy, Elton became affectionate as soon as he was feeling better!

Supporting Our Community

Eric, longtime donor and supporter over a decade! We can now offer tours and volunteer opportunities to youth and workplace groups, help more partner shelters by taking in cats that otherwise would not have had a chance, and support them by sharing programs, protocols and tools.

We all love the warm fuzzy talesso many adopters share, especially when they feature a cat who spent extra time with us, needing medical treatment, behavioral intervention, or extra support through the transition into the home. These updates are constant reminders of the deep and lasting impact of this work on the lives of people and pets.

But that impact doesn't end there! We are so thankful to be able to bring in new clients, volunteers, fosters, adopters, partners, and supporters of all types. This growth builds resiliency and expands our capacity as community need continues to grow.

The relief we see on the faces of pantry clients who have just learned that we can provide meals and other supplies to their pets, clinic patients who can finally afford to have their cats seen by a veterinarian, and partners looking for a safe place where cats with ringworm can receive specialty treatment, are just as heartwarming.

The stories from our community share a common thread—this work changes lives—both of cats, and the people who love them. Your support and involvement has made this possible. Thank you for being a part of the SAFe community: together we are making a difference, helping each other, and building empathy for all living things.
